as heard of the Golden Rule – and often times we associate it with Christianity's "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

But, the Golden Rule, in varying versions, has been a part of many major religions and philosophies.

- Judaism: What you dislike for yourself, do not do to anyone.
- Confucius: What you do not want done to yourself, do not do unto others.
- Aristotle: We should behave to others as we wish to others to behave to us.
- Hinduism: Do nothing to thy neighbor which thou wouldst not have him do to thee thereafter.
- Islam: No one of you is a believer unless he loves his brother what he loves for himself.
- Buddhism: Hurt others with that which pains thyself.
